What's happening?

We'd like to seek your support and nominations for Researchers and Research Support staff to take part in the following upcoming engagement sessions in relation to the new Research Management System (RMS):

1. RMS Design Validation: Pre-Award Proposal Form Validation – seeking participation from Researchers only
2. Research Management User Experience (UX) Design – seeking participation from Researchers and Research Support Staff

1. RMS Design Validation: Pre-Award Proposal Form Validation (For Researchers)

The RMS project team are designing the draft future-state forms and processes and are seeking Researchers to assist in validating our design thinking. The first topic we'll be validating is for the new Proposal Form as part of the Pre-Award process.

There will be 2 sessions as follows:

1. Wednesday 22 November – 10.30am to 11.30am via Zoom
2. Monday 27 November – 10.30am to 11.30am via Zoom

The outputs of the validation will be used to iteratively design the new RMS solution.

The total estimated time commitment for the validation is about 2 hours encompassing pre-read and the Zoom session.

2. Research Management User Experience (UX) Design (For Researchers and Research Support staff)

We are also looking for your participation and nomination to co-design the high-level user journey through the Research Management Lifecycle with a targeted focus on:

1. Identifying how users find value from their interactions with the system, processes and services; and
2. Ensuring the process is transparent, seamless and easy within the technical limitations of the Cayuse and Workday systems that are being implemented to replace Themis Research

We're looking for Researchers and Research Support staff across the faculties to take part in any one of the following 1-hour workshops to provide input into the UX design for the new Research Management System.

The UX Design sessions will be held as follows:
